Stewards questioned apprentice J Johnson into reason why he raced three and four wide throughout the event when there was an opportunity to gain a position closer to the rail in the early stages.

Apprentice J Johnson explained that the instructions were to attempt to lead if possible and in the early stages the mare tended to over race. Approaching the 1600m he again attempted to try for the lead and was unable to gain this position and was forced wider from the runner to his inside. Apprentice J Johnson said he placed the mare under pressure at the 500m and failed to respond to his riding and further explained he was mindful he was stuck wide for most of the race and reverted to hands and heels only.

Stewards after viewing the official patrol films and taking the evidence into consideration were satisfied with the explanation and took no action.
